Traveling Chant

Julia Phillips

Some time ago I promised to post some of the BoS material I have which (allegedly) pre-dates Gardner. No guarantees <g>, but I was told that this chant dates from the 1920s:

> Let's ride, let's ride, to the Sabbat tonight,
> we'll ride over hill, over dale.
> We'll ride to the feasting and ride to the dance,
> and ride to the October ale.

> Let's dance, let's dance at the Sabbat tonight,
> We'll sing with a heart full and glad.
> We'll sing and we'll love through the chill autumn night,
> and remember the loves we have had.

> Let's ride, let's ride when the Sabbat is done,
> let's ride back to hearth and to home.
> Let's ride back together all under the stars,
> and wait for the next Sabbat to come.

> I think it's rather a nice chant, whenever it was written.
